Before joining full-time staff with Cru to serve on the National Conference Operations team, I interned with Cru for two years at Florida State University. I absolutely loved walking alongside students on their own faith journeys. There was something about watching college students place their faith in Christ and share the Gospel for the first time that grew my faith in ways I could have never imagined. Even though I'm no longer connected to one physical campus I'm still encouraged to hear how God is working on college campuses. This month I wanted to spotlight how the Lord is at work with the SoFlo (South Florida) campus team!

Cru's SoFlo team is focused on reaching the half million college students in Miami and the surrounding area. This past fall they launched a digital testimony campaign called "Before and After". Students would record a short video about their life before and after walking with Jesus, then post it to social media or text it to a few friends as a way to spark spiritual and gospel conversations. Praise the Lord that they saw over 1,000 students exposed to Jesus through this digital strategy! As the next generation of college students are increasingly more digitally connected and the limitations in physical meetings due to the pandemic, the SoFlo team is utilizing digital strategies to the full glory of God!

Speaking of digital strategies, Cru's annual Winter Conference is less than a month away! As I shared in the fall, this year we are changing it up from our typical 7 locations across the country to one centralized digital conference. Would you be praying with me now for God to use this time to draw students to Himself? I'm excited to share with you all God does next month! On a personal note, I made the decision to take the entire year off of social media but still want to be connected with you. Please feel free to reach out to me at any of the contact info below to share
